MURRAY GOT THE CHILDREN

BUT THE GERRY SOCIETY KEPT THEM OVER NIGHT.

Nurse Took Them Out for Airing and Was Arrested, Whereupon Police Little Ones to Safe Place - Father Has Views but Can't Tell Them in Court.

David Murray, a real estate broker who lives at 503 West 148th street, was bout the most indignant man in New York yesterday when he went to the Children's Court to get his two little ones who had been locked up all night in the come of the Gerry society because Maggie Brady, their nurse, got arrested on a charge of intoxication while she had the children out for an airing Thursday after-

Mr. Murray was willing to say just exactly what he thought of the methods of the Gerry society, but Justice Mayo would not let him do so and told him that e thought that he had no complaint In fact the Justice thought that Mr. Murray was lucky under the cirumstances to have the society take such good care of the children.

r. Murray and his wife had spent bad night and both were at the Children's Standard Oil Man Stricken With Heart Court half an hour before the time for it to convene. Maggie had gone out with the children Thursday afternoon and when Mrs. Murray got home had not returned. the went to the street but could not see

GOMPERS SUPPORT ROOSEVELT?

Certainly He Did Not. Says the Labor Federation Secretary.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, who is here to attend a two days session of the committee on industrial education, said yesterday regarding the statement of John Kirby, Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, that before the last election Fresident Roosevelt (avoring the Pearre anti-injunction bill and the labor amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law.

Mr. Gompers is not here to speak for himself, but any one who followed the last campaign can see how preposterous for the last election and the policy was to support its friends irrespective of party, That Mr. Gompers idid not support the candidate of Mr. Roosevelt consumers through its officers always has taken every chance of aiming blow at Mr. Gompers, simply because it is opposed to the unions.

WHAT'S NORA BAYES WORTH?

WITH OR WITHOUT HER HUS-BAND, JACK NORWORTH.

Problem in Theatrical Values Put Up to the Court in Ziegfeld Suit-Eva Tanguay's Ability as a Substitute at $1,200 a Week in Evidence Considered.

Some light on the services performed by Nora Bayes, the actress, and her hus-band, Jack Norworth, in the roof garden requested each member of his Cabinet to curtail the expenditures of his department. The national expenses have increased with great rapidity and we are confronted with a situation which requires careful attention to prevent them from outstripping the revenues. This requires rigid economy.

"I am anxious to make a good showing in the Post Office Department. I want each postmaster to use every endeavor of reasonable economy in his office. Prevent waste of supplies, see that there is no greater expense than necessary for substitute or auxiliary service; double up wherever possible; in every way reduce expenses so far as you can without impairing the efficiency of the service.

The convention by a rising vote pledged support to the policy of economy.

By Nora Bayes, the actress, and her husband. Jack Norworth, in the roof garden show. "The Follies of 1809." for which likes Bayes was engaged and featured as the star, came out before Supreme Court Justice Amend yesterday on the argument of the application of Florenz legicled for an injunction restraining the Bayes-Norworth team from appearing at Keith & Proctor's or anywhere else except under the management of the season.

David Ge-ber, counsel for Ziegfeld, said that while Miss Bayes was the real attraction and the better performer of the two. He said she got a salary of the two. He said she got a salary of the season.

attraction and the better performer of the two. He said she got a salary of $450 in "The Follies of 1908" and that Norworth got only $250. This year the two were signed at $800.

Before I left Paris I came to this decision. It was intimated to me that Mr. Kahn would like to have me remain in Paris to talk over what I had done and exchange my views of the situation in Europe with him. I did not allow that request to interfere with my sailing.

"Already I had decided that in the future the Metropolitan Opera Company could get the benefit of my advice and judgment in only one way. If the board of directors had come to me formally to ask for counsel or assistance I would have given it to them. But I had decided even before the company reciprocated so generously about the Chicago Auditorium to have no more conversations or conferences with Mr. Kahn or Mr. Dippei.

"My relations with both gentlemen are very pleasant personally."

Mr. Hammerstein says he cannot understand what motives impel the Metropolitan Opera Company to attempt to block his plans.

"That is an enormously rich organization," he said, "engaged primarily in supplying opera to its subscribers and stockholders. I have no company back of me and am trying to let the people have the best opera that can be obtained for them. I am giving, for instance, in my 'educational' season the artists that sing in the foremost European opera houses at cheaper prices than they could be heard for in Europe. Why cannot the Metropolitan Opera Company, which has entirely different purposes, allow me to follow out my plans?"

with the Attorney-General this afternoon by a delegation from the Lord's Day Alliance and the Good Citizens League of Atlantic City and the Law and Order League of the State setting forth that the excise laws have been openly, flagrantly and persistently violated during the present month. The Attorney-General was furnished with a list of alleged violators, including probably three-quarters of the hotels and taverns of Atlantic City.

The notice of the Attorney-General was issued under authority of an act of 1801, which provides that if necessary measures are not taken within ten days by the authorities charged with the enforcement of the law they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. As indictment by a Grand Jury would be precedent to a conviction and as Atlantic county grand juries have repeatedly refused to indict for excise "colations the latest move in the crusage to purify Atlantic City will not likely cause a sensation in that resort.
